“Suggestions to a New Senior”

11.20.1977

"새로운 선임에게의 암심 – (saeroun seonimege-ui amsim ..)"

“Suggestions to a New Senior”

- (1) Companion inventory should be held weekly (white book)
- (2) My junior should be aware i will happily accept any corrections on grammar or the language he may observe, (but, I must never offer suggestions without his prompting)
- (3) My junior should be allowed to question anyhting I do that he may understand, and then be allowed to express his opinion on the matter.
- (4) Let, not force, my junior to give of itself, participate, and make mistakes so he can learn
- (5) Put him in charge of special programs - worthwhile.
- (6) Apply his talents to our proselyting.
- (7) Don't be a cause to make him feel inadequate, or poor in the language remember you when

From Ron Belnap in a letter:

- (8) Remember that your companion has in opinion he thinks is important ... he wants to contribute, to be part of the team. Ask him what he would like to do, let him choose his part, and then you support him as much as you want him to support you.

Few people like to be told to do any thing. Ask, lead, quide their direction, offer suggestion, but don't be angry if he doesn't choose to accept your offer, study how Christ led- did he tell (people what to do) and order people around? No, he taught them mid they followed.

Joseph Smith (sp.) said...

Page 318 "Special"

- (8) "teach them and they'll govern themselves!" ... and remember to pray a lot.
 - (9) Be a friend foremost, especially keep the idea you can have fun together.
 - (10) Hold daily planning and review meetings.
 - (11) When discussing proselyting ideas, be sure to have it designed for yourself, and presentable. Then accept criticism on it, and reform your idea.
 - (12) Study the language together for ½ hour per day!

These are the missionaries I had residence with. These are they who had a great effect on my life for two years while I served with them in all and many circumstances. It was the relationship with these good brothers and sisters which seemed to be the greatest challenge on my mission. If I learned anything about interpersonal relationships, these were my teachers. I was not a master of kindness or patience, but more the out-spoken-and-lack of understanding person. I wished I had been more willing to give up on my opinion or position long enough to establish love first. I have considered my position on many subjects to be correct most of my life, and I still maintain that pattern and confidence, but with all my might, I wish to never let that stand in the way of charity and friendship. Help me dear lord!

There are several people I feel some responsibility with preparations, although they are not recorded here, my mission's success is not shown in the amount of rapture, but as was promised to me in my Patriarchal Blessing, I feel good about the work I did.

These are the people I baptized.
